

Berea College Perry Promise Neighborhood

Perry County, Kentucky

Partners for Education at Berea College serves children and families in three Promise Neighborhoods located across Appalachian Kentucky. In partnership with 11 schools, 7 other entities, and families themselves, Berea's newest cradle-to-career effort, the Perry Promise Neighborhood, offers health initiatives, community safety programs, and educational support to children from birth to age 24 who live in and around the towns of Hazard, Buckhorn, and Vicco.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

Kids on the Move, a local health and wellness initiative funded through the Kentucky Wellness Coalition, was bringing better nutrition and fitness to some children in Perry County. In previous years, the program had been able to establish a few school gardens, as well as pilot activities and events related to good eating and exercise in several schools. However, their impact remained small because of inadequate funding. Now, thanks to a partnership with the new Perry Promise Neighborhood, Kids on the Move is taking on additional school and community partners as it moves to bring its results "to scale" for children and families across the county.
